

SINCLAIR GIBSON

Sinclair Gibson LLP is a leading London firm of private client solicitors specialising in helping families with their legal and financial affairs throughout their lives and after death.

Tax and private client advice: We have world renowned expertise in advising individuals, families and trustees on structuring their assets tax efficiently and securely.

Administration: Our family office services group can guide families and executors through the sometimes complex issues which emerge when administering a deceased's estate including interpreting the will, obtaining the grant of probate, completing and submitting the necessary tax returns and collecting and distributing the assets of the estate.

Disputes: Our litigation specialists can help clients with any difficulties arising on death; for example, where there are problematic circumstances surrounding the preparation of a will, where those left behind feel inadequately provided for or where legal claims are made against the estate.

Family and divorce: We have decades of experience in advising client in the event of marital breakdown, nuptial agreements and disputes involving children.

“Naturally, you look for technical ability and the Sinclair Gibson team have it in spades.”
